SHAKE IT MONTRÉAL: A DAY DEVOTED TO DIGITAL ISSUES OF TECHNOLOGICAL ACCELERATION

MONTRÉAL, March 23, 2017 - The very first event on technological acceleration, Shake IT Montréal, is taking place on Wednesday, April 19, 2017, at New City Gas. This event, which is mainly for high-level managers and executives, aims to offer tools for understanding current issues in the digital world to make better strategic decision-making simpler. The program includes conferences and plenaries led by 20 or so of the most dynamic and innovative players in IT from here and abroad.

With both its content and format, this event stirs up popular and conventional beliefs about IT to inspire participants and get them to think outside the box. The opening conference of this disruptive day will feature visionary Yoshua Bengio, Full Professor of the Department of Computer Science and Operations Research at Université de Montréal, Scientific Director of IVADO, Head of the Montreal Institute for Learning Algorithms (MILA), and Head of the Canada Research Chair in Statistical Learning Algorithms..

Shake IT Montréal will be hosted by Stéphane Garneau, Radio-Canada journalist, commentator and, above all, lover of all things digital. The event will have a festive and culinary side to it, ensuring those in attendance an immersive experience they will not soon forget. Among others, Shake IT Montréal will welcome Jonathan Garnier, chef and founder of the Guilde Culinaire.

The event is a unique opportunity to attend conferences and share information with the top players from here and elsewhere who offer innovative solutions needed for a major corporate transformation. Moreover, Shake IT Montréal gives participants close and privileged networking opportunities.

Partners

The event is presented by Microsoft, with the support of Econocom, OVH and 4Degrees, as well as Action TI, Montréal International and Techno Montréal. Shake IT Montréal is an initiative of Linkbynet.
